Center for Anthroposophy Strategic Plan Summary

On October 17, our CfA board approved our new strategic plan for the next four years. The culmination of a year of searching, questioning, refining, and drafting, this plan will address the needs of CfA and those we perceive in the Waldorf movement. We are ever so excited to now share these with our circle of friends and ask for your engagement!

A more detailed description can be found here, but summarized our plan consists of five goals:

1. Strengthening Enrollment: Waldorf Education as a Path to Becoming. This priority is mostly focused on teacher education and supporting schools with newly inspired teachers.
2. Building a Circle of Friends: Alums, Partners, Networks, International Engagement. We cannot do our work alone!
3. Sharing our Story. This outreach work will feature our wonderful alums and the CfA programs that have served them.
4. Renewing Anthroposophical Initiatives through Research. We need to continue to deepen the spiritual impulses possible in student and faculty research that sustains us.
5. Deepening Organizational Strength and Capacities. To accomplish our goals, and all the other work we do at CfA, we intend to improve the administrative and organizational systems that serve us all.
